Manage Your Trade with WikiSuite Commerce

Sell anything from memberships to products or services using WikiSuite Commerce features. Manage your products and services, customers, orders, promotions, customer rewards, shipping, stock, warning levels, payment gateways, support inquiries and advertising system securely online. Catalog display is easily enhanced to offer your visitors infinite ways to filter, classify, bookmark, and refine their research as well as for you to manage your marketed workflow.

Flexible options

To sell anything from event tickets to products online, e-commerce features are available within WikiSuite. Advanced features include managing and distributing digital signage, social media marketing and sales force management. This is one platform for all your commerce needs. Specific cases like membership programs, e-learning, and image or audio marketplaces and others are ready to be assembled with validity, duration, tokenization and more options and capabilities.

You'll be able to link up within your organization, among different branches, or with external partners through a complex and accurate system of groups and permissions. Advanced interaction can be implemented using APIs, SOAP or internal controller custom code. As an open source solution, complete control is provided to make any changes or enhancements required for your business model.
